VALIANT KNIGHTS WIN A BATTLE OF WIT

No one can defeat warriors who come to a battle prepared. Thus, proved Denroe Hernandez, Darmari Joshua Guamos, both Twelfth Grade Valiant Knights, and Dzaki Dzikril Hakim, Eleventh Grade Valiant Knight who finished Third Place in the Lyceum of the Philippines University (LPU) General Information Quiz Bee held at the LPU Freedom Hall last October 6.

It was a tough battle of intelligence between 33 schools across different parts of the Batangas Province, but in the end, the Valiant Knights rose to be one of the best teams. The Quiz Bee focused on different fields of study such as Literature, Arts, Sciences, Mathematics, Current Events, and the like. Despite the wide coverage of questions thrown to them, Denroe, DJ, and Dzaki remained focused on their goal – to bring home honor to SSIS. Consequently, they didn't fail to exhibit their competence and collaboration all throughout the entire competition.

Kudos to Denroe, DJ, and Dzaki, as well as to their valiant coaches who stayed committed to helping them achieve!

AND THAT'S A WRAP!

The Strategic Program for Emergent Literacy via Learning Shop (S.P.E.L.L.S.) for ECED, Giftedness through Interdisciplinary Educational Strategies (G.I.D.E.S.) for Grade School, and Relevant Integrated Curriculum for High School (R.I.C.H) for Junior and Senior High School are activities which provide the students with an opportunity to show and apply what they learned throughout the entire term. These activities offer fun-filled tasks in which the students will be able to show grit and growth mindset in accomplishing the tasks given in each subject. These activities serve as an avenue for the students to explore, discover, and create meaningful learning experiences while having the chance to socialize with the other students.

The S.P.E.L.L.S. of ECED students will be on October 22, 2018. While, the G.I.D.E.S. of the Grade School and the R.I.C.H of the Junior High School students will be on October 19, 2018 and October 26 for the Senior High School students.

STUDENT COUNCIL MAKES TEACHERS' DAY CELEBRATION A BLAST

There's nothing more rewarding than to be appreciated for your dedication to your craft. Teaching may not be the best paying job in the world and may not be the best field for someone to be famous, but it is indeed the most fulfilling job any person can ever have. A teacher gets rich not by the money he or she makes but by the experiences, lessons, and love that he or she shares with the students. A teacher may not be famous just like how any other person dreams to be, but his or her influence to the students will always remain for eternity.

In celebration of the Teachers' Day last October 5, the SSIS Student Council and its moderator, Miss Marriel, made every second a moment that the teachers will treasure. All of the teachers painted genuine smiles on their faces as they were welcomed with much love and appreciation. The teachers were made to walk down the red carpet just like how famous celebrities enter the venue for a certain Awards Night. The joyous cheer of the students who were watching their teachers walk on the red carpet made the atmosphere more enthusiastic and exciting.

A special presentation by the Dance Varsity made the teachers enjoy the rhythm of the songs. The commendable performance of the Dance Varsity became even more interesting when they asked all of the teachers to groove with them. The teachers were then serenaded by the angelic voices of Jazcha Marayag and Shane Comia who in their rendition of the song, Hero, made the teachers feel how much they are valued.

The highlight of the event is the one of a kind activity planned and organized by the Student Council. It was truly a remarkable part of the history of SSIS when some of the teachers who won in the Bet on your Teacher performed and unleashed their hidden talents in front of the SSIS community. Everyone cheered for Miss Connie Cena, Miss Christelle Aya, Sir Bryan Acob, Sir Andy Maghirang, and Miss Rhea Benedicto. Each of the teacher who presented didn't disappoint the students and parents alike for the performances were really terrifically executed. Indeed, the teachers were grateful to the support and love reflected on the votes they got in the said activity.

Later on that day, the teachers and staff of SSIS went out for a fun get together where everyone took a respite from the paper works and other school-related works. All had a great time with the activities and games prepared for them.

It was truly a day worth remembering. All of the gifts, kind words, support, and each and every gesture of love and appreciation made all of the Mentors of the Valiant Knights happy. Thank you for the simplest to the most grand way of appreciation that you have done. Also, the Student Council is very grateful to everyone who supported their activities. The overwhelming support that they got is a reflection of how committed the students, parents, and guardians are to the school. Thank you very much.

To see the highlights of the Teachers' Day Celebration, you may view this video made by the Student Council President, Aaron Macaraig, in this link <https://www.facebook.com/ssisbatshssc/videos/253253672024384/>.

A REMINDER TO ALL PARENTS IN THE SPIRIT OF CHILD PROTECTION

The school upholds its commitment to give the students nothing but the best. The best quality education as well as the best good manners program are only two of the aspects the school gives attention to. To add, SSIS also makes it a point that every child will be heard and that processing of reported cases, be it simple or serious, will undergo the proper proceedings and that everyone involved will be given the chance to be heard.

With these being said, the school would like to remind the parents about talking to other students about issues with their own children. The management would like to highlight the importance to following the proper procedure in investigating and addressing different issues and cases. Following the proper procedure will help the school and the parties involved to solve the conflict in an orderly and peaceful manner. Incidents have to be reported to Ms. Ella or the Homeroom Adviser. And they will be the ones to consult the proper school authorities in order for the case to be solved.

Depending on the gravity of the incident, the school has the prerogative to impose appropriate actions on the involved parent in the spirit of Child Protection.

PARENTING CORNER

5 Tips to Help Your Kids Prepare for Exams

Exams! If this word sends jitters down your spine, read on. This term's exams are just around the corner, but there's no time like now to help your child start preparing for their exams.

Exams may be stressful, and not just for children. Some might say that exam stress hits parents just as hard. This came under the spotlight, with The Straits Times reporting Education Minister Heng Swee Keat's comments on parents being concerned about whether their children could cope with the "excessive competition and stress" inherent in our education system.

While nothing can replace sheer hard work, there are ways that you, the parent, can help your child to study better:

- 1. Encourage Plenty of ZZz's. Sleep deprivation is significant since well-rested students tend to be healthier and more alert. While children should, naturally, get plenty of sleep throughout the year, parents should pay extra attention to sleep patterns when its time for school exams. According to the National Sleep Foundation, children 6–13 years old require 9 to 11 hours of sleep, and teenagers need 8 to 10 hours.
- 2. Tie Study Techniques to the Child's Learning Styles and Interests. Make test preparation as fun as possible! Kids may have different ways that they prefer to learn, including visual, verbal, social, and solitary, and parents often have a good idea of which learning style best fits their children.
- 3. Seek Out Extra Help. Young learners often gain an advantage when parents seek out extra help for tests. Such help comes in a broad range of possibilities: study groups, tutoring, learning programs, and computer programs, to name just a few.
- 4. Remain Calm. Parents can convey their anxiety to their children easily, which often tends to increase the pressure that students feel. Naturally, parents do not want their children grappling with issues such as sleeplessness, decreased appetite, and panic as an important exam looms; instead, parents need to project a tone of positivity and encouragement.
- 5. Familiarize the Child with the Exam and Environment. When something becomes familiar, it usually loses its mystique and hold over a student. Students also tend to feel more in control and more empowered when they know exactly what to expect. In many cases, parents can find previous or practice tests online, and teachers can also direct parents to additional resources (as well as serving as valuable test preparation resources themselves).
