BEST Reflections OF THE WEEK

Congratulations to the following students for having the Best Values Reflections of the Week.
Keep it up, Kings!

"When something doesn't work right, I have to do my best and never give up."
- Celine Santamaria, 6 Russia

"I choose to persevere in the face of difficulties so that I could reach my goal."
- Anja Jzela Martina Hilario, 4 Japan

"The best reward a person could ever get is a friend, for there is nothing closer to family than a friend. Friends are there in your darkest times and in a way, they know you better than your family. If I may add something, it is that the journey is more important than the reward at the end, your hardships and temporary indulgences may add up to more than the reward at the end."
- Nathan Benedict Sandel, 10 Peru

"My mom is my inspiration. She inspires me in a way no artist or crush would. Her life story is one to be heard. I wake up everyday just to prove her that as her child, I can be successful like her. I want to show her that she did not raise a failure, because I am not. Every time I see her, I see a new side of her, the true definition of a strong independent woman. She does not inspire me to become a doctor just like her, but to become a woman with good moral values."
- Therese Felicci Siasoco, 10 Peru

"Completing tasks with perseverance and discipline is important because we are able to develop and practice these and incorporate them in future actions."
- Marian Elsbeth Maranan, 11 Egypt

"Completing tasks with perseverance and discipline is important because it teaches us to be more responsible and to practice being a better student and person."
- Arcelie Austria, 12 South Africa

Parenting corner

Dealing with your Child's Report Card

While a negative report can be disappointing for parents it is important not to let disappointment or anger get the better of you, as it will only make things worse. A parent's reaction will greatly impact a child's motivation, self-esteem and sense of their own capabilities. Be sure to acknowledge any improvements and think in a proactive and positive way. It is important not to consider an unsatisfactory report as your failure, instead help your child take responsibility for what may be challenging them, and work out a plan of action together to help them improve. Show your child that you believe in them and that they have the ability to do better next time by offering them support, guidance and attention.

Ask your child what they think will help. It will be important to include your child in the conversation and give them the chance to share how they are feeling. It is also important to find out if there is any underlying issue affecting them at school.

Talk to their teachers. Your child's teacher should be able to tell you where your child needs help and suggest steps you can take to help them improve. View your child's teacher as a partner in your child's development, and remember that you don't have to wait until the next report, you can check in regularly over the school year.

Create a realistic plan of action. If there are specific areas of concern, look at how they might have improved in other subjects and see if they can apply that to where they are struggling. It will be important to look beyond the grades and consider effort and time spent on school homework.

Avoid conflict. Statements that convey to a child that they are useless and can't do anything, can have a damaging effect of staying with young people for a long time and become their internal self-talk. Having an open and positive conversation when both of you are calm will boost their self-esteem and give them confidence and motivation to work towards improvement.

Help them get organized. Once you have figured out where your child needs to improve, putting it into action will involve creating a structured and positive learning environment. Give your child more stability, supervision and support by breaking down what needs to get done and when they will do it. This will avoid them feeling overwhelmed and help to boost their confidence.

IT'S MUFTI DAY ON DECEMBER 5!

Join the Mufti Day on December 5! The theme of this month's Mufti Day is "Christmas in our Hearts." Students may wear costumes showing their love or their excitement as Christmas comes! Always remember to squeeze your creative juices by re-using or upcycling stuff at home.

A fee of P10 will be collected from students who will wear attire related to the theme and P20 for those who will not follow the theme. SSIS students in complete uniform do not have to pay any fee. Funds will go to the Student Council Fund. Once again, everyone is reminded that although casual wear is allowed, decent dress code for students is always expected. This means students cannot wear slippers nor sandals; no sleeveless, spaghetti-straped blouses, tight tank tops, low-back, plunging necklines, see-through clothing, mini-skirts, shorts or sandals. Let us support this worthy project; at the same time, maintain decency and academic atmosphere in SSIS!
